Re: Assistant Director, Advancement Systems & Operations

Dear Hiring Committee:

I am applying for the Assistant Director, Advancement Systems & Operations position with the Richmond Symphony. I bring more than ten years of nonprofit and public-service experience building systems, coordinating complex workflows, managing stakeholder information, and turning data into action. I am also a Richmond-based pianist and music producer who has performed regularly at The Jefferson Hotel for four years. This role joins my nonprofit operations experience with a genuine commitment to music and Richmond's performing-arts community.

At Save the Children Action Network, I managed statewide advocacy operations involving parents, providers, volunteers, lawmakers, and coalition partners. I coordinated 55 General Assembly meetings, used EveryAction to capture and tag constituent engagement, built event and outreach plans, and prepared follow-up reports on turnout, media, and organizing outcomes. The work required clean data, reliable workflows, and coordination across program, communications, leadership, and external partners.

At Active Minds, I built the organization's first federal policy platform, led a ten-organization coalition, engaged more than 50 legislative offices, and created tracking, reporting, and training systems. In Senator Mark Warner's office, I prepared senior-level briefs, organized more than 40 public engagements, and coordinated across legislative, communications, and leadership teams. These roles strengthened my ability to manage high-volume information and translate data into clear decisions.

At the Virginia Housing Alliance, I developed budget and policy strategy, coordinated statewide partners, and supervised graduate interns. Across my roles, I have built infrastructure, managed sensitive records and deadlines, trained users and volunteers, and supported colleagues with different levels of technical comfort. I would bring that same service-oriented approach to Bloomerang administration, data governance, acknowledgements, dashboards, portfolio tracking, and the Advancement team's partnership with Finance.

My background is broader than traditional advancement operations, and I have not yet administered Bloomerang. I do bring hands-on experience with EveryAction, Microsoft Office, reporting, process design, and cross-functional nonprofit operations. I am comfortable with the required evening and weekend schedule and would participate fully in concerts, donor events, and Symphony activities.

Thank you for considering my application. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my systems-building, nonprofit leadership, and performing-arts background could support the Symphony's advancement goals.

Sincerely,

Randy Bryan Moore, MSW
